

Reserved Right: Landowner Request Form

Thank you for contacting The Land Trust for our review of your proposed activity or improvement. We use the information you provide to determine if the request is permitted and to analyze if it is consistent with the conservation purposes of your conservation easement. A reserved right refers to a specific land use retained by a landowner in a conservation easement. While these rights are outlined in your conservation easement, they usually require approval or notice to The Land Trust before the activity begins.
